- proof of delivery (POD)
- automated workflow management
- vehicle location and status tracking
- lone worker protection
- mobile phone and email
- real-time 'push' technology
- full back-office integration
- centralised management

Delivery processes are a major cost to any business. Endless reams of paperwork for job manifests, proof of delivery, insurance and invoicing lead to high costs for labour intensive manual data entry. It's such a waste!

Cleardata offers an affordable alternative, partnered with all major mobile networks, the company supplies a simple electronic solution, configured to fit with your processes and back-office applications.

The solution delivers real-time automated updates of your data (text, images and POD signatures) to and from your back-office applications, eliminating the need for repetitive manual data entry and form production.

Established in 1978, the company employs a team of mobile solution specialists and has deployed over 10,000 devices in the UK.

The business is passionate about quality and adopts a partnership approach, ensuring support for customers to continually improve the efficiency of their business and maximise profitability.

key benefits:

- improve your cash flow
- save money, boost profit
- cut out manual paperwork
- automate your processes
- zero capex required
- zero implementation cost
- low-cost monthly rental
